BERLIN REPORTS

GAIN IN BALKANS

Russian Assaults Against von Hindenburg's Men Break Down Under Heavy Fire.

Berlin, Oct. 13 (via London).—The Austro-German invasion of Serbia is making progress, the war office announced today, although the Serbians are interfering to some extent with the advance. A village and other positions south of Belgrade have been captured.

The war office Balkan communication follows:

"The resistance of the Serbians was sufficient to hold up only slightly our forward movement. South of Belgrade the village of Zaleznik and the heights east of the village on both sides of Topoloderska were stormed. Attacks upon Pozarevac are continuing most favorably. The Pozarevac-Gradiste road has been crossed in a southerly direction."

The German statement on the Eastern theater says:

"In the Eastern theater: Army group of Prince Marshal von Hindenburg west of Lvinsk a Russian attack broke down under our artillery fire. Attempts made by the enemy to take possession of the island occupied by us on Miazdiol lake failed."

"A Russian attack northeast of Smorgon, which got as far as our entanglements was repulsed."

"Last night one of our airships bombarded the fortified town of Dvinsk, which was full of troops, with a large number of bombs."

"Army group of Prince Leopold of Bavaria: There is nothing to report."

"Army group of Gen. von Linsingen: The enemy was driven out of his positions near Rudka-Bielskowskaja, as well as over the lines at Alexandria, and was driven over the heights north of that place."

"German troops under Gen. Count von Bothmer threw the enemy out of several positions northwest of Halvorenka and southwest of Burkanow."

Regarding the fighting in Belgium and France, the official statement says:

"In the Western theater: British attacks northwest of Vermelles were easily repulsed."

"East of Souchez the French again lost some portions of the trenches which they were able to keep on October 11."

"In Champagne, a French attack yesterday afternoon failed south of Tahure. Repeated attacks on the same place early this morning with several groups of troops broke down completely."

"In the Vosges the French lost a portion of their positions on the western slope of Schratzmannole."

PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

BOUNDARY STREET SCHOOL

The Parent-Teacher association held its regular meeting last Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The questions of outdoor drinking equipment and athletic supplies were discussed. Mrs. Lucy Young, the community nurse, talked interestingly on several matters pertaining to health, with especial reference to contagious diseases and small children.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Leland Summer; vice president, Mrs. C. H. Cannon; secretary, Miss Gertrude Reeder; treasurer, Mrs. J. Y. McFall.

Speers Street School

At a meeting of the School Improvement association of Speers Street school on Wednesday afternoon the following officers were elected for the next term: President, Mrs. R. D. Wright; vice president, Mrs. Ben Buzhardt; secretary, Miss Corrie Lee Hayward; treasurer, Miss Bess Burton.

The matters of improved drinking fountains, new maps and more books for the library were suggested as laudable undertakings for the year. Other discussions were made on the question of kalsomining the walls of the room, and the need of other minor repairs.

Miss Lucia Singley, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Wilbur E. Long, has gone to Florida to spend the winter.

BOSTON RED SOX WIN

CROWN OF BASEBALL

Long Swats Dominate Battle, With Winners' Clubs More Efficacious in Action.

Philadelphia, Oct. 13. In the fading sunlight of a beautiful October afternoon, Harry Hooper of Capota, Cal., yearning for the Golden Gate with all the fervor of a native son, decided to bring the world's series of 1915 to a close. Hooper earns a tidy little livelihood each summer by covering right field for the Boston Red Sox of the American league. The honor of his club and the honor of his league were at stake this afternoon when he came to bat for the last time in the fifth game of a wonderfully hard fought series—a game tied fast and hard. Col. Eppa Jephth Rixey of Charlottesville, Va., was hurling for the faltering Phillies and there was one out in the ninth when Hooper faced the erratic southpaw. The colonel made the batter look foolish as he broke two fast curves over the plate for called strikes, and the home rooters were howling in glee. This noisy approval evidently made Rixey overconfident, for a moment later he grooved one. There was a swish, a crack of hickory against horse hide and a white streak headed for the centerfield stands. The ball fell to the ground and then with a long, looping bound it went into the crowd and Hooper trotted around the bases.

Ended the Series.

The Phillie still were due a turn at bat, but there was not a soul among the more than 20,000 fans crowded in the park who did not know that the series was over and that the Boston Red Sox had won another championship of the world—four games to one. Flustered, but still fighting, the standard bearers of the National league went through the formality of completing the last inning, but not a man could get to first.

This last game of the series was one to stir the blood. It was a battle from the jump with the issue ever in the balance. Twice it seemed Philadelphia had a winning margin, but twice the Red Sox hammered their way to the front. Piling up three runs in the eighth and ninth inning, they got the decision, 5 to 4.

It was a batting bee in which the Phillies got an early start. Their big war clubs were ringing merrily when the Red Sox determined to take a hand in the fray. From that time forward there was a crashing, clouting chorus that sounded a sweet symphony in the ears of the fans. For the first time in the series the hum of the homer was heard in the land. The Boston hitters got the range of the short centerfield and sent three balls hurtling there for the circuit. Hooper got two of the home run smashes and Lewis another for Boston.

Death of a Little Girl.

The shadows of death for the first time have entered into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. W. Taylor of St. Phillips community and taken away their only little daughter, Miriam Esther, aged 1 year, 4 months and 25 days. Little Miriam was aken seriously ill last Sunday morning, the 10th, and at 12 o'clock the following night God called the little soul from this world of sorrows to that eternal joy and happiness.

The little body was laid to rest in St. Phillips graveyard on Monday folits death at 3 o'clock by the side of its grandfather, Hon. John F. Banks. The pastor, Rev. Y. von A. Riser, conducted the funeral service.

Dear young parents, the yoke of bereavement has early been put upon your neck, and this summons may have come at a time when the joy of your hearts could least be spared, and it is sad to realize that last week was all joy and happiness, and so suddenly those joys have been turned into sorrows and bitterness, but these are God's dealings and we must not question them, for some day He will turn them into joy. (We know that it requires a very strong faith to realize that all things work together for our good, but remember the words of the Saviour when He said "Suffer the little ones to come unto me and forbid them not.")

HYDE HOLDS SMALL LEAD

IN CHARLESTON CONTEST

Estimated Majority of Nineteen Votes According to Democratic Committee—Result Declared Friday.

The State.

Charleston, Oct. 13.—Tristram T. Hyde has an estimated majority of 19 votes over Mayor John P. Grace for the mayoralty nomination as a result of the municipal primary held yesterday, according to the tabulation furnished by the city Democratic executive committee.

The ballot boxes have been placed in the custody of the executive committee and will be under a heavy guard until Friday morning, when it is said the result of the election will be declared.

Good order prevailed in Charleston today and both sides adopted a waiting attitude.

One box, Club 2, Ward 10, has been protested on a technicality by the Hyde managers. The unofficial majority of Grace at this box was 90. Granting Grace this majority Hyde still has a lead of 19 votes.

Everything Included.

Therefore every possible vote is considered in the mayoralty figures with the exception of challenges, the number of which will not be definitely known until the committee meets.

The vote for mayor, excluding Club 2, Ward 10, is:

Hyde ..... 3,087

Grace ..... 2,978

Hyde's majority ..... 109

Subtracting the estimated majority of Mayor Grace in ward 10, the Hyde forces seem to have won by 19 votes.

The four companies of the National Guard and the three divisions of the naval militia, under arms since Monday night at 8 o'clock by order of Governor Manning, were disbanded this morning at 7 o'clock. W. W. Moore, adjutant general, who has been in command of the troops, left for Columbia at 3:30 o'clock this morning.

There were three fights in ward 10 yesterday and the offenders were fined $10 each in the police court this morning. One man was tried on the charge of assaulting an officer and fined $10.

City Still Dry.

The dispensaries remained closed today and no word has come from the governor's office as to when they will be opened. It was said that only two "blind tigers" were supplied with whiskey. It was reported that whiskey sold for 50 cents a half-pint, the highest price ever known in Charleston.

This afternoon Mayor Grace issued the following statement:

"My friends are urging me to have a recount of the entire vote. A difference of eight votes on the face of the returns will give the election to me. Moreover, the great number of challenged votes, which I am advised are almost entirely mine, ought to be investigated."

"In the meantime I only wish to express my deepest gratitude to my devoted friends, who are indeed, in my opinion, the majority of the people of Charleston."

"The tactics that were used yesterday cut me off from 300 or 400 legitimate votes."

Major Hyde issued the following statement:

"I wish to express my heartfelt thanks to all of my many friends for their loyal support which resulted in our victory yesterday."

Expects More Margin.

"I feel confident that when the election is declared our present majority will be increased. In a few days I will make a statement expressing more fully my appreciation."

The managers of Club 2, Ward 10, brought the box to the office of the executive committee this morning just before 1 o'clock. The Hyde managers immediately filed a protest on the grounds of irregularity, in that 39 men had been voted in the morning before a poll list was instituted.

Chief Cantwell of the police department issued a statement this afternoon commending the officers and men of his department for the manner in which they handled the election crowds.

To Reopen Dispensaries.

THE IDLER

Here's another one for the young reporters who are so fond of the bright blue October weather, the sweetest month of all the year. James Whitcomb Riley, the Rooster poet, was born in October and only recently the whole State of Indiana joined in the celebration of his 62nd birthday. He, too, was fond of October, and why shouldn't he be, as it was his natal month. He wrote a poem on "Old October" and in that poem occurs this stanza:

"I love old October so
I can't bear to see her go—
Seems to me like losin' some
Old-home relative, 'er chum—
'Pears like stort o' settin' by
Some old friend 'at sigh by sigh
Was a-passin' out o' sight
Into everlastin' night."

You see, I am sorter getting to like Old October myself. But if you will read history and take note of it carefully you will find most of the great men were born in February and January, and some few even in August. (That's my month. See?)

Talking about James Whitcomb Riley, he wrote another little poem about his home town, and he was a great admirer of his home town and believed in sticking to it, and as all good men and good women do, and as they should do. Stick to your town and its people, they are the ones that help you to make the bread you eat, and then if you get in trouble, they are the ones who are going to come to your assistance. It doesn't pay to run off after strange gods. I am going to quote what he said about his little hamlet, and I want you Newberry people to take out "Tailholt"—and by the way that is a pretty good name, if you can't get any other "holt," why then take a "tailholt" and hang on to it—and insert Newberry and then see and listen how the thing would read. Here it is:

"You kin boast about yer cities, and their stiddy growth and size,
And about yer county-seats, and business enterprise,
And railroads and factories, and all sich foolery—
But the little Town o' Tailholt is big enough fer me."

All of us in this town of Newberry should feel that it is big enough for me, and when we do not feel that way, then we should move on to the town that is big enough to hold you. There's no use remaining in a town when you've outgrown it.

A white man of Union was sentenced to six months on the chain-gang Saturday for slander. If all slanderers could be rounded up and be given the same sentence, the good roads problem would be solved.—Newberry Observer.

And then, my dear Mr. Editor, who would make the rations to feed them, and who would act as guards and jailers and officers, if you put all of them to working the roads? We couldn't live by roads alone.

And, then, if all the prohibition people were just good temperance people, what a glorious time we would have. I mean temperate in all things. Not only in the matter of drink, and yet I know some prohibitionists who are prohibitionists for the other fellow, and some who are political prohibitionists. They want to take care of the other fellow and keep him from his glass of beer, but they would like to have a little for their own poor stomach's sake, and they have authority that is good for its use. Talking about temperance, I read a little squib a while ago from the Birmingham Age-Herald which is apropos in this connection. It ran something like this:

"Dr. Shorter preached a sizzling sermon today."

"Yes?"

"I never before heard a man use so much invective."

"What was his subject?"

reopen the dispensaries tomorrow morning. Every dispensary in Charleston county has been closed since Saturday in accordance with the governor's orders given Sunday on account of the primary election of Tuesday.

"Temperance."

And so it goes. The loudest advocates of temperance are sometimes the most intemperate of men and women. But I reckon it is all right, and for the best, or it wouldn't be. At any rate it suits me all right.

And this reminds me to remark that I read a little placard in a street car the other day that ran something like this: "Any fool can give advice, but it takes gray matter to use it." Now, dear reader, you can make the application. I am giving the advice and I hope you have the gray matter to use it. And to give you another little proverb from old man Diogenes Laertius:

"The sun, too, shines into cesspools, and is not polluted." Old Diogenes, I think, is the man who went around in the broad daylight with a lantern looking for an honest man. It seems to me that I have read something like that at some time or other. There is a lot of truth in this proverb, even if the old man was odd enough to go around in the sunshine with a lantern looking for his honest man. If you want to help those who need your help you must get down next to them, and be able to do so without getting any of the pollution which they have.

You can't reach them by preaching at them on Sunday, when they are not present, and can't hear what you say. It is a mistake too many of our ministers make. I remember on one occasion, a long time ago, a minister came to this town, and he was invited to a dinner at which were several citizens and good men, but men who rarely went to church, and this preacher made the remark that he was glad of the opportunity thus afforded to meet these men, for in that way he would be in better position to reach them and to help them—that if he could not be thrown with them there would be no opportunity for him to reach them. And there you are. That remark made me think. And he was not hurt by the contact. The sun can shine into a cesspool and not be polluted. Think of this, you ministers, whose mission it should be to seek out those who are lost. The Great Preacher, if I am not mistaken, said something about Ho came to save those who were lost and not those who needed no salvation. This in answer to the Pharisees who could not understand why he associated with sinners. But I did not start out to preach a sermon and I beg the pardon of the preachers.

NEWBERRY TO GET BEST TO BE HAD IN MOVIES

Mr. Wells Secures New Charlie Chaplin Comedies and V. L. S. E. Features.

"The Valley of Lost Hope"

Mr. H. B. Wells, the movie man, went to Atlanta this week and booked some excellent features for his playhouse. In speaking of them Mr. Wells says:

"While in Atlanta I booked the following Charlie Chaplin comedies:

"By the Sea," for November 13.

"Jitney Elopement," for November 20.

"The Tramp," for November 27.

"In the Park," for December 11.

"The Charley Chaplin comedies are not regular, but sometimes come only once a month. Therefore I had to take them as I could secure them."

"I also booked some of the best and newest of the V. L. S. E. features, which, beginning next week I will run on Thursdays instead of Fridays, as heretofore. Some of these have not been released yet. I will furnish you a list later. The feature which I will run Friday, the 15th "The Valley of Lost Hope," a five-reel Lubin, was only released Wednesday, which will be the first time this picture has gone through the machine. It is a very spectacular picture. I also selected a good program from the World Film corporation for Tuesday of next month. These subjects are also much newer than I have been using heretofore."

Mr. Wells also secured some new parts for his machine and, infacts, he always had a fine projection and would compare favorably with those anywhere.

Fat—My word, Tom, you have got thin! Skin—That's nothing; you should see my brother. He's as thin as the both of us put together.—Firefly.
